TEDDY is the European Network of Excellence for Paediatric Clinical Research, funded in 2005 to “structure efforts devoted to the development of medicines tailored for children”. To date, after 10 years from the launch of TEDDY activities, it still has a crucial role in the European and global scenario of clinical research, as it has been also acknowledged by the recent inclusion in the category 1 EnprEMA networks.

In the occasion of its General Assembly, TEDDY Network, in collaboration with INciPIT (the Italian Network for paediatric Clinical Trials) organises a scientific session in which the most recent advancements in paediatric research at European and National level will be discussed and shared with the academy and other stakeholders interested in the field. In addition, the most recent TEDDY initiatives will be presented together with concrete and realistic plans to address some of the most relevant priorities in the paediatric research agenda.

The initiative is organised in the framework of and acknowledges the collaboration of the Project GRiP (Global Research in Paediatrics – Network of Excellence).
